Our Products Range

We offer a wide range of agricultural disc blades both in carbon steel and boron steel that are widely used for a host of agricultural applications. Our products are checked stringently on various parameters and are reckoned for their high performance and reliability in operations.

Agri Impex produces discs for ploughs, harrows and drill discs for direct seeding, in various formats: conical (plain or notched), spherical, raised or according to customers design, supplied in all sizes and with different holes as per customer's request.

They are produced from steel with high carbon content or micro-alloyed boron steel followed by heat treatment to better attend the uses different types of equipment and crops.

All discs are manufactured from steel plates produced by exclusive cross rolling, a process that confers uniform radial over-use and greater stability to meet the needs of the product.

We can roll material in any thickness from 2.5mm to 12mm. And in any special diameter required by the customer, which can serve the customer better over conventional coil material, which comes in selective sizes.
